

Form & View Settings

Summary:

In the Frappe Framework, the "Form & View Settings" allow developers to customize how a DocType is displayed in the form view. These settings provide flexibility in determining which field is displayed as the title and how linked documents are represented in other DocTypes.

Key Insights:

- 1. Title Field: This is a field of the DocType that will be showcased as the title in the form. To set it, one needs to enter the name of a custom field in the 'Title Field' option.
- 2. Show Title in Link Fields: By enabling this option, the title of a linked document will be displayed in the field instead of its name. This is particularly useful when you want to show more descriptive information in link fields. For instance, if a custom field of the 'link' type is added in another DocType (or through the customize form), the title of the linked document will be shown in that field, providing more context than just the name:
